

May 1, 2023

Beth Braverman LLC
4 Fort Hill Lane
Scarsdale, NY 10583

Dear Beth Braverman LLC,

This letter, when signed by both parties, will constitute your agreement as a freelance Writer [hereafter Writer] with AARP (the "Agreement"), and the acquisition by AARP of rights to the assignment as follows:

1. The agreed fee is $1500.00 Per Article/Column . In consideration of this fee, Writer agrees to the following terms and conditions:

2. Writer will report to John Waggoner reachable at or jwaggoner@aarp.org. The description of the assignment is as follows:
 - a) Assignment: ORG- What to buy in May . 1000 words . This is a story about where you can find the best bargains in May.

Google Doc URL:

NOTE: You are required to deliver to the assigning editor an annotated manuscript indicating all fact-checking sources consulted for the Assignment as well as all source and backup material relating to the Assignment. This material includes, without limitation, negatives, photographs, footage, phone and fax numbers and e-mail addresses of all people you interviewed for the article; website addresses; books, magazines, trade journals, or other references you consulted (if not originals, please photocopy the referenced pages, passages, etc., including the title pages and covers); and notes or transcriptions of interviews you conducted. Your payment cannot be processed until your annotated manuscript and all your source and backup materials are received by the assigning editor.

b) Due Date: April 30, 2023

i) Job I.D. to be quoted on all invoices: 71661 -aarp.org (ORG)

3. All Work shall be considered "work(s) made for hire" for AARP and shall belong exclusively to AARP and its designees. To the extent that under applicable law, any such Work may not be considered a "work(s) made for hire", Writer agrees to assign and upon its creation, automatically assigns exclusively to AARP, for the full

